Here you follow a former railway line built to link the towns of Laval and Nantes via Châteaubriant. Its straight-lined 44km have been transformed, with a compact, hardened surface now allowing for all manner of non-motorized transport. This greenway enables you to reach interesting tourist sites easily, like the wacky Musée Robert Tatin at Cossé-le-Vivien, the classic park and Château de Craon, and the Musée de l'Ardoise et de la Géologie (on local geology and slate-mining) at Renazé.

The route

Go under the D 910 road using the underpass for cyclists. Once out of this short tunnel, signs indicate L'Huisserie in one direction, in the other, the continuation of the greenway towards Montigné-le-Brillant.

Take care crossing the D 22 road after Craon.

There are kilometre markers along the greenway.

Picnic tables are set up along the route.
