Heading out from Maintenon, the aquaduct's arches form a grand backdrop to the first part of this stage. Following the Eure Valley, the countryside has a rustic charm. Then Chartres Cathedral beckons, an unmissable goal as you cycle along the roads on this stage of La Véloscénie.

⚠ Work in progress ⚠

The Veloscenic is currently closed at Saint Prest, Champhol and Lèves, because of work on sewage and water system along the Coulée verte. We suggest to follow a deviation to avoid the area of work: download the map - download the GPS track. This deviation is not signposted.

From September 2nd, the route will be again impacted by work of burying networks. This time, it will be closed from Jouy, in the continuity of the current cut between Saint-Prest and Lèves ; that will lengthen the deviation by 3.5 km.

The route

Take care on the D 18 road south of Maintenon. Then the route meanders along the Eure Valley, taking you past typical old villages. To cross Chartres, leave the ordinary road to follow a greenway from Champhol towards the south side of town. Pay attention, as there's no signposting as yet on the greenway, which makes the route somewhat more complicated along here, notably south of the cathedral.
